Re: Captain Peter Cook

To whom it may concern:

Peter is a highly skilled mariner, having all the attributes that we require for a delivery skipper. These are:

- Deep experience with a variety of types of yachts and launches undertaking bluewater passages of more than 1000nm.
- Professional mariner training, from navigation & piloting, to heavy weather seamanship, to fire prevention & fire fighting.
- A professional and cooperative attitude, high standards, and a strong work ethic.
- The interpersonal skills required for a skipper to effectively recruit and supervise passage crew. These include personal integrity, self confidence, good companionship and quiet good humour - the attributes that make fellow mariners aboard for a passage want to join Peter for the next trip.
- In an emergency, Peter is especially reliable, willing and resourceful. He has the ability to evaluate a situation then implement appropriate corrective action.

In choosing a delivery skipper, for us the bottom line comes down to "Are we confident that this captain will deliver our yacht safely, while caring for the vessel as though his own?" That is why we will recruit Peter to lead any future ADAGIO delivery. Peter is our #1 choice for captain or crew on any bluewater passage.
